Adopting a pet is a serious responsibility. A pet you adopt today will likely be part of your family for the next 10 to 20 years. A pet makes considerable demands on your time and resources. As a pet owner, you will need to spend time training, socializing, grooming, feeding, scooping poop, exercising, and playing with your pet on a daily basis. Pets that have not been trained require even more time and socialization. All pets require regular medical care. Some pets require special food or medications. Some pets require regular professional grooming. Vet bills, pet sitting, and vacation boarding fees may add considerable expense to your family budget. Are you prepared to accept the personal and financial needs of owning a pet and accept that FOJA makes no guarantees as to the health or temperament of this dog? Yes No
